

Some inspiring free online films

The Church Times newspaper of 18 November had an interview with Brian Sumner, an Englishman who found fame as a professional skateboarder. In the interview he says:

I became a Christian in 2004, after our marriage failed. I was depressed and suicidal, and challenging God (whoever that was to me at the time). He showed up in a powerful way in my life, saved me, saved my ex-wife at the time, and began to restore our lives.

Later in the interview, he says:

I've been friends with those at the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association for years. So I was excited to be involved in the Association's My Hope series of films, which aim to equip and encourage local churches to proclaim the gospel.

Here is the link to the 30 minute film in which Mr Sumner appears. It also includes accounts from a professional comedian, and from a lady who was domestically abused by her former partner:

http://www.myhopewithbillygraham.org.uk/programs/lose-to-gain/?

The film includes clips of Billy Graham's preaching, that Jesus:

"doesn't take your troubles and problems away, but he gives you a peace and a joy that will enable you to go through them and live through them, if you put your trust and your faith in him.

Adrian Vincent, December 2016.